Arrest of Col. Hawkins at Hatteras.
Col. Rush C. Hawkins of the New York 9th regiment, lately commandant at Hatteras Inlet, has been pisced under arrest by Gen. Thomas Williams, for refusing to recognize a Captain whom Gov. Morgan had appointed to a company in his regiment. The Captain (Barnard) is a Jor, who had become unpopular in his own regiment, the Pirst, and was transferred to a vacancy in the Ninth. Col. Hawkins looks upon this transfer as an insuit to himself and regiment, which he feels called upon to resent. General Sherman succeeded General Anderson, who resigned on account of ill health, There were great expectations of what he was going to do, but a successor has been provided before he had time to perform much. He has been accounted an energetic, and able officer. But we suspect that the Secretary of War was dissatisfied. According to the Record of Adlighant General Thomas, made

The presence of any considerable force of organized men in this vicinity, except the Federal troops, is evidently not a fact. The garrison suffers no slavar. The commandant of the post has given assurances to the people that their property shall be protected, and that horses and servants of Union men, if taken, shall be given up. On the strength of these, the described city of Boonville begins to look up. The treets are now thronged with teams, and Union men are on the rapid increase, numerically. A Union club has been formed, which has a long muster-roll. A police force has been organized, and the people feel safer than they have done for months. Our experiences of late have convinced as of the impolicy as well as injustice of lauding Departmental Commanders in advance of any deeds that extort praise; and that they have hoped they might be; and that it is far easier to sing a man's praises, before he is tried, than to demonstrate his incapacity, though it may be never so glaring, after he has failed. The fact is a higher compliment to the loyalty of the masses to the objects of their worship, than to their acumen when such matters are prought before them for their decision. If the clouds are clearing away from the proof of that day though full of sad and painful proof of binners where a blunder should choose to float with the current that they have hoped they might be; and ed not say that we refer to the hissavior of the State. We have learned how hard it is to undo our own work, and how eluctant the people are sluctant the people are to break their dois, though they are only clay and rags. We shall be guilty of ne such indiscretion the case of Gen. Halleck. He is untried York Herald a sketch of the military life of the new Commander, from which we learn that Gen. HENRY WAGER HALLECK was born in New York, and entered the Military Academy as a military cadet in 1835. He stood third in the class and was Professor of Engineering at the Military Academy from July, 1836, to June, 1840. In 1841 was the author of a military work on "Bitumen and its uses," &c. Appoint-ed First Lieutenant in January, 1845. In 1846 he wrote the work published by Appleton & Co., of New York, entitled the "Elements of Military Art and Science." appieson & Co., or New York, unduced the "Elements of Military Art and Science." In 1847 was breveted Captain for gallant conduct in affairs with the enemy on the 19th and 20th days of November, 1847, ious service in California. etary of State of the province of nia in the military governments of is Kearney, Mason and Riley, from to the end of 1849. He was Chief of coast in 1847 and 1848, and was a n coast in 1847 and 1848, and was a member of the Convention in 1849 to form, and of the Constitution of the State of California. In July, 1858, he was appointed Captain of Engineers, and resigned on August 1, 1864. He now appears as a Major General, his commission bearing date August 10, 1861.

ing date August 19, 1861, m. Halleck is is in the flower of man d. His friends claim for him a wider as will, courage, energy, secreand discretion; that outside of sion, he is a thoughtful earnest, cesful man, undemonstrative and a shrewd observer and a firm (thinker. His health and habits and successful man, undemonstrative and silent, but a shrewd observer and a firm and rapid thinker. His health and habits are good, and his body, hardened by temperance and exercise, is equal to any demands that will be made upon it. If these claims are well founded, he will find in his new sphere, a wide field for the exercise of all his gifts of intellect and education; and they will lead him straight to success and fame. If he prove a student and a dreamer only, his misfortunes and reverses will appeality tell of his unfitness.

CONTRADANDS WITH THE NAVAL

It was stated by some of the reporters with the naval expedition, that the fleet, when at Mouroe, took on board 300 contrabands to assist the soldiers. A later report came that Gen. Wool could spare none, as he had no more than were needed for the use of his garrison. But it is now said by better authorities at Fortress Mouroe, that a large number did go with the fleet—how many hundred is not at a large number did go how many hundred is not the darkness, einding the vigilant patrol. They row for life and liberty, and a man will risk considerable for these. After striking the considerable to the expedition, is will be known among the conds, and the nature of Gen. It is considerable for these. After striking the co

we shall endeavor in the case of Gen. Hallick, while upholding his authority and in our way seconding his endeavors, to see to it that he is not at once elevated to the rank of Cacear or Napoleon. We have found that sweeping commendations, no matter how extravagant and undeserved, are greedily believed by people who are anxious to think that their Generals are all that they have hoped they might be: and

The clouds are clearing away from the painful tragedy at Ball's Bluff, and the record of that day though full of sad and painful proof of biunders where a blunder was a crime, will leave for the name and fame of Col. Baker nothing unbecoming the soldier or the man.

paramit proto of blunders where a blunder the was a crime, will leave for the name and fame of Col. Baker nothing unbecoming the soldier or the man.

He obeyed orders, the orders that have been laid before our readers, procured the been laid before our readers, procured him as with the Six Hundred at Balaklaya, it was "mot to reason why," and though the order to march to Leesburg was his death warrant, as he himself pronounced it, it was obeyed, and his life and the loss of nine hundred men paid the penalty.

If, as its due, we credit the affair at Edwards Ferry, with what has since resulted, with the thorough change of policy and management of affairs on the resulted, with the thorough change of policy and management of affairs on the Potomac; if, purchased by this error, we are to have instead of bickerings in the Cabinet and carbonac in military circles.

and management of affairs on the Potomac; if, purchased by this error, we are to have instead of bickerings in the Cabinet and carbals in military circles, a centseing of power and responsibility in the hands and mind of one, we shall, in welcoming Gen. Mc-Clellan to the position, say with more contentment than under any other circumstances we could believe possible, "thus endeth the second lesson" But it will not be justly nor fairly ended if it leaves a shadow of blame on Col. Ballow, and it is not be noped that it is, for it is will known that Gen. Sherman advocated, well known that Gen. Sherman advocated, the way payarently decided upon. We shall have no fasting in the great disadvantage of a larged plant of the stances we could believe possible, "thus "we endeth the second lesson."

But it will not be justly nor fairly ended of it it leaves a shadow of blame on Col. Baker. Gen. Stone was his superior officer, and is still in command. He may, and we trust will, learn a lesson from the ill-starred croesing of the Potomac, but he must, in the records of the war, pay his own tuition wills, and be responsible for his own short-

Crank, etc.

Gram. Wool.—The rumor that this veteran commander, who is now doing much good servile at Fortress Monroe, had resigned, is happity disproved. Some color was given to the report by the fact that Gov. Morgan and Senator Harris of New York telegraphed him comings.

The persistent efforts that from the first, have been made to throw the blame on Col. Baker, the talse dispatches, the hypocracies of letter writers that have been liberally considered and sanctioned in high quarters, the report by the fact that Gov. Morgan and Senator Harris of New York telegraphed him to withhold his resignation, and it may be, therefore, that the present denial is but tem-porary. The correspondent of the Philadel-phia Jives, usually well informed, says the re-port is "gratuitous and idle;" and that all Gen. Wool's demands upon the Administra-tion have been met promptly and with will-ingness. of letter writers that have been liberally employed, and sanctioned in high quarters, all have aimed to place Col. Baker on the list of those who "paid a penally with life, for their fault,"—"brave, loyal, but rash,"—"exceeded instructions" and "fell a victim to his own rashness." To meet this tim to his own rashness." To meet this cruel aspersion, nothing is required but the orders under which the fallen soldier acted and these he obeyed to the letter. Those Austrian Muskets

Contrabands Coming in.

Notwithstanding the vigilance of the robels the contrabands continue to flock into Fortress Monroe in considerable numbers. Lest sunday forly-five came in. On Wednesday sixteen, or Thumsday, thirty-seven. During the previous week more than one hundred arrived. They were mostly adults, and from the Raphaenock river country. It is astonishing how they manage to get off in such numbers. They get possession of opsier and fishing boats at id at any price.

WORK FOR THE UNEMPLOTED,—Rev. E. B. Tuttle, the City Missionary, has received a letter from L. Lyon, Esq., at Lods, ninety-nine Upon this page will be found the offivote at the recent country election, as can-yessed by the County Clerk and two Justices, secording to law. The returns in many of the towns were made up most aloyenly and care-lessly, and in others with entire disregard of the duties of judges and clerks as defined by the statutes. In the Tenth Ward not one of letter from L. Lyon, E.q., at Lods, ninety-sine miles south of this eity on the Illinois Central Railroad, stating that he will give employ ment to four men himself and provide work for iwenty others, at corn-gathering. If the men are reliable the money will be advanced to forward them to Lods. Here is an excellent chance for the unemployed. Those who wish to improve it should apply at once to Rev. Mr. Testia.

Swond Princentarios.—On Saturday evening after perade at Camp Donglas, a very besuttiful aword was presented to Charles 8. Cameron, let Lieut, of Company B of Bracketit's Cavalry. The sword was genuine Dramacus blade, and was the gift of Charles M. Gray, Lady, General Freight Agent of the Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana Rall-road. The recipient is not one to prove unworthy of the elegant gift confided to him. We venture to assert that a sword more serviceable will never be drawn in this Regit. the recipient is not one to prove untry of the elegant gift confided to him. The recipient will never be drawn in this Regist.

Suppers and Misterators Draffi.—On fonday night of last week, a man named artley, residing with his brother-is-law, as Thompson, city carpenter, on Clinton reet, came to his death in a very suddem and ysterious manner. Hartley had invented a recch-loading cannon, and had cansed a sectimen to be constructed at Gates's founcy, on Canal street. On Monday he was to be given this gun a trial, but on going for the foundry man refused to let him have it semile in seme convenient spot and be a worn BUDDEN AND MYSTERIOUS DEATH.—On onday night of last week, a man ushind specimen to be constructed at Gates's foundry, on Canal street. On Monday he was to have given this gun a trial, but on going for it the foundry man refused to let him have it until he should pay the charges upon it. Hartley was in reduced circumstances, and had calculated on the success of this invention to release him from his embarrassments, but without meney he could not get the gun. This predictances worked upon him very seriously, and on going home he soon retired. Between 11 and 12 o'clock in the night, a noise was heard in his room, and on going there his great that the various Boards or necessary as that the various Boards or necessary and be sworn in separately until it is a matter of legal cer in separately until it is a matter of legal cer. A LARR TVO IN BAD ODOR.—Many of our readers will remember the spiendid wrecking tug Salvor, built by the Lake Underwriters some years since and for a long time in service upon Lake Michigan, and many more will remember that lately she left these waters, passed through the Welhard Canal, and there to New York. For, a time she disappeared, but undeally turned up on the Southern coast attempting to run the blockade, and was brought into Philadelphia, a contraband, by the "Keystens," where she now lies, a decided object of interest.

The report which has gained credence that this boat formerly run on the Husson river is a mistake. She is the identical Salvor so well known at this port, and has undergoes a miterial alteration, by the construction of a decishove her cable, for cattle, which may have led to the error in question. It is split that so fine a error, which has in times past provad of invaluable service in the rescue of human tife and saving of property, should be consigned to a temporary inactivity and hasting aligns, the consequence of fathing into rebell the new for the places, lend calls were made for him to come forward and speak, he modustly hands.

COL MULLIGAN AND STAFF AT THE THEATHEA—THE—This place of ammement was filled to overflowing last night, owing probably to the fact that Col. Mulligan and the regimental staff staff of the Irish Brigade were expected to be in attendance, and the additional fact that Mr. Couldock was to appear in one of his most effective characters, Luke Fielding, in the drama of the Willow Copee. The seats of the Theatre were all crowded, and many of the sudience were obliged to remain standing during the whole performance, for the simple reason that they could not find appear to the down. The interior of the building had been COL. MULLIGAN AND STAFF AT THE THE much mosted for an unring met sie evitival.

Mr. Rrysa, for his genérosity in donating a portion of the rent of the Hall, and for his uniform couriesy and kindness during the whole affair, deserves aspecial mention.

Capt. Bleisasi was a native of roland, and was among the first of the gallant patriots who took up arise to redeem his native eductry from the gailing yoke of bondage under which she had so long bled. He fought throughout the whole of the last struggle which that gallant nation made against the through the jaw, and the other, a bayonet thrust, through the shoulder. When he recovered from these wounds, like dom, and settled in this clave, where in time he became a citizen. His talants as engineer, and his high character as a gent man, commended him to Gen. Shields, and when he became Gommissioner of the General Land office, he called Captain Bleinski to sai important and respectable position in the Department. His uniform courtesy and kindness secured the friendship of all who knew him; and his size talents, and great moral worth, endesired him to his superior officers. General McClernand, when called to the important position to now occupies, fully appreciating Captain Biolabackies worth and great portant position as now occupies, taily appear classing Captain Bielsaki's worth and great military abilities, tendered him a position in his staff, with the rank he held. Though sur-rounded with every comfort that heart could desire, he cheerfully surrendered all, that he might ald his adopted country in this last creat structic for civil and religious libderest affection, and marched forth to battle. In every sense of the word, a hero and patriot, he knew no lear our same Liberty was the great object of his hearty de-votion—for her he had long and nobly strug volton-for her he had long and monly strug-gled, and for her he bravely died.

For many years he was my warm personal friend, and I feel that language falls me fully to describe his virtues and patriotism. While a large circle of friends deeply mourn his death, he has left to his bereaved and afflicted family the rich legacy of a glorious name, and to his sons and the youth of our country, a bright example of strict virtue and devoted patriotism. He died, as a soldier would wish to die, in the midet of the rush and din of bat-tie, with his fame immortal. May He who "tempers the wind to the shorn lamb," who has promised to be a father to the fatherless, less orphans; and may our country promay know no want, should be the wish of very true friend to our country.

Truly vonrs.

John Wilson.
